

I am more than satisfied with the Indiana telephone privacy act. It works and I am not interested in going back to something that is less stringent than the protection I have now. It is so nice to be able to have dinner or watch TV without answering numerous calls every day and night. The telemarketers call anytime disregarding time zones or weekends. Don't mess with something that works!